> "The heart of the discerning acquires knowledge, for the ears of the wise seek it out."

Use these on your own or with a group. Read the passages, think it through, and write down what stands out.

1 Think of a question someone once asked you — a child, a teacher, a friend — that changed how you saw something. What made it a better question than the ones you'd been asking?

2 Read Proverbs 18:15. When you meet an idea or a teaching that is unfamiliar, which comes first for you: "Let me find what is wrong with this," or "Let me understand this better"? What shapes that reaction?

3 Read Matthew 6:33. Think of a time you wanted something so much that you kept looking until you found it. How strong is that wanting when it comes to seeking God's kingdom first?

4 Read Acts 17:10–12. The Bereans were open enough to listen and grounded enough to examine. Which of those two comes more naturally to you, and which takes more effort?

5 Is there a question about your faith — or about something you've always simply assumed — that you have been hesitant to ask out loud? Who could you ask?

6 Ask better questions. Ask deeper questions. Seek to understand. Which one will you practice this week, and with whom could that become a conversation?
