> "And David danced before the Lord with all his might."

Use these on your own or with a group. Read the passages, think it through, and write down what stands out.

1 Think of something good you've received lately — a song, a book, a teacher, a habit. Run it through the three questions of the Jesus Test: Is Jesus at the center? Does it lead me toward following him? Does it line up with what he taught? Which question is hardest for you to answer honestly?

2 Read Luke 9:50. The disciples were focused on who belonged to their group; Jesus was focused on whose name was being honored. Where are you tempted to ask "Is he one of us?" before asking "Is Jesus being honored?"

3 “When we lose sight of the purpose, we begin protecting the routine.” Is there something in your own life — or in how we worship — where HOW has become more important than WHY? What would it take to bring the purpose back into focus?

4 Read 2 Samuel 6:1–5, 12–15. David wasn’t celebrating because everything was going his way; he was celebrating because God’s presence was coming home. What has God done lately that you have been slow to celebrate?

5 How do you express yourself when you’re truly joyful — a goal reached, a big win, a child’s first step? What do you do when you encounter God’s goodness? If you had stood watching David that day, would you have joined him, or questioned him like Michal (2 Samuel 6:20)?

6 Read Ephesians 5:15–20. “The question isn’t whether we’re going to be moved by something. The question is what’s moving us.” What fills your heart right now? And if our whole community joined us next Sunday, what would they leave believing about our God?
