Discovering What Matters. Building What Lasts.

> "For no one can lay any foundation other than the one already laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Use these on your own or with a group. Read the passages, think it through, and write down what stands out.

1 Think of a way your family treated people — a habit, a kindness, a way of showing up — that you still carry. What did it teach you about what matters, even though nobody ever said it out loud?

2 "Our families give us our first picture of the world, but they don't have to determine how we see it forever." What is one thing from your family's picture of the world that you are glad to hold on to? Is there something you have had to question or let go of?

3 Read 1 Corinthians 3:10–15. Paul says each one should build with care on the one foundation, Jesus Christ. Looking at your home and your daily choices, what are you building with — gold, silver, costly stones, or wood, hay, and straw?

4 "What gets passed down doesn't always have to get passed on." Is there something you received that you want to stop at your generation? Who could walk with you as you build something different?

5 "Sometimes we walk away from the very things that gave us a strong foundation." Is there something good you were taught — a habit of prayer, a church family, a value — that you have drifted from? What would it look like to return to it? Who has reminded you of who you can still become?

6 Read 1 Thessalonians 5:21. "We don't have to hold on to everything from our past to hold on to what is good." What will you hold on to, what will you let go of, and who in the next generation is counting on the foundation you are building today?
